Rhode Island Teens Fight Censorship and Erasure

Thousands of books have been removed from American libraries and schools or threatened with censorship in recent years. The majority of these books feature LGBTQ+ or BIPOC characters, or address issues of inequality or discrimination. We invite you to fight erasure by celebrating challenged books and their on-the-page representation.

Rhode Island students in grades 7-12 are invited to submit work to this traveling exhibit.

To enter:

- Redesign the cover of a banned or challenged book
- Tell us why you choose this book
- Upload your work on our submissions portal

Everyone who enters will have a chance to win a prize. Opening reception on April 6, 2024, at the We Are ALL Readers book festival at North Kingstown High School.

Submissions open
